ANGOURIE RICE

Angourie will soon be seen in HBO limited series Mare of Easttown, opposite Kate Winslet. The series is set to premiere in April 2021.

Angourie won Best Lead Actress at the 2018 AACTA Awards for her role in Bruce Beresford's Ladies in Black, based on Madeleine St. John's 1993 best-selling Australian novel The Women in Black. Other credits include Spider-Man: Homecoming and Spider-Man: Far From Home, for Marvel Studios, Black Mirror Season 5 on Netflix, the lead in Every Day, directed by Michael Sucsy (The Vow, Grey Gardens) and based on the novel by David Levithan; Sofia Coppola's The Beguiled, alongside Nicole Kidman, Colin Farrell, Kristen Dunst and Elle Fanning and the film adaptation of Jasper Jones, directed by Rachel Perkins. Angourie made her Hollywood debut in The Nice Guys opposite Ryan Gosling and Russell Crowe - from director Shane Black and producer Joel Silver - for which she received uniformly glowing reviews. Prior to that, her debut feature film came with Zak Hilditch's These Final Hours, which premiered in The Directors' Fortnight at the Cannes Film Festival.

Angourie's other credits include Nowhere Boys: The Book of Shadows from David Caesar, Mako Mermaids, Hartman's Solution, The Dr Blake Mysteries and The Worst Year of My Life Again.

From a creative family, Angourie began her career in Perth, Western Australia with several short films and national television commercials. She first came to industry attention at just eleven years old with her lead role in Zak Hilditch's short Transmission, for which she won a Best Actress award at St Kilda Film Festival. Angourie is a passionate advocate of reading and literacy and runs her own Podcast, The Community Library.
