EVA REES

Eva originated the now iconic role of Harry Potter's son, Albus, in the Australian premier of Harry Potter and the Cursed Child.

She played Joe in the 2018 Red Stitch production of Fury, directed by Joanna Murray-Smith, and completed training at 16th Street Actors Studio in the areas of Character Preparation (with Bronwen Coleman) and the Chubbuck technique (with Lyndelle Green).

Having grown up surrounded by performers, Eva is no stranger to our screens. She is perhaps best known for the hit teen series Nowhere Boys, for the ABC, and the sequel film Nowhere Boys: The Book of Shadows.

Other credits include Utopia Series 3, the feature films Jindabyne (Dir: Ray Lawrence) and My Year Without Sex (Dir: Sarah Watt), miniseries The Secret River, Rush, the hit series Kath & Kim, Killing Time and a main cast role in Small Time Gangster.

Previous stage credits include the Red Stitch production of The Flock and the Nest and Lama Theatre Company's The Places You'll Go.

Eva has also voiced radio and commercial campaigns for some of Australia's leading brands.
